

Table of Contents

Foreword	10
Executive Summary	12
1 Introduction and Background	27
1.1 Introduction and Purpose of the All-Island Skills Study	27
1.2 Benefits of North-South Skills Collaboration	27
1.3 Importance of Skills to Economic Performance	28
1.4 Ireland and Northern Ireland Skills Development Groups and Skill Strategies	31
1.5 Existing Work Comparing North-South Economic Data	34
1.6 Methodology Used to Compare and Match Relevant North-South Skills Demand Data	35
1.7 Report Structure	37
2 Economic Context	38
2.1 Introduction	38
2.2 All-Island Facts	38
2.3 Wider Economic Context	39
2.4 Key Demographic and Economic Trends and Forecasts	40
2.5 Summary	65
3 Labour Market and Skills Context	67
3.1 Introduction	67
3.2 All-Island Facts	67
3.3 Labour Market Trends	69
3.4 Skills Profile of Working-Age Population	78
3.5 Earnings	85
3.6 Education Qualifications and Destinations	87
3.7 Summary	90

4	Demand for Skills	92
4.1	Introduction	92
4.2	All-Island Facts	92
4.3	Part A – Recent Skills Demand Trends	93
4.4	Part B – Skills Demand Issues	118
4.5	Part C – Skills Demand in Specific Key Industry Sectors	129
4.6	Sectors for Consideration	130
4.7	Tourism and Hospitality	132
4.8	Construction	135
4.9	Engineering	138
4.10	ICT	142
4.11	Financial Services	144
4.12	Part D – Future Skills Demand Trends	147
4.13	Summary	164
Annex		167
	Annex A: Technical Data Matching	167
	Annex B: Notes to Charts and Tables	199
	Annex C: Sources on Vacancies, Skills Shortages, Labour Shortages Gaps and Utilisation of Skills	210
	Annex D: Existing Skills Forecasting Research and Explanation of Replacement Demand	212
	Annex E: Bibliography	216
	Annex F: Glossary of Acronyms	219
	Annex G: EGFSN Membership	220
	Annex H: Northern Ireland Skills Expert Group Membership	221
	Annex I: Steering Group Membership	222